

Chantiers du Dapsa : ouverts pendant les travaux !

N°1 « De l'importance du futile »

Par Marijo Taboada, Vice-présidente du DAPSA

Merci à Silvia Maddonni pour son illustration

Finally, one always ends up evoking the important things, those that have the status of important things. But, the little things, the « chit-chat », the words exchanged before or after the formal meeting (it's true also for the psychotherapy sessions, what is manifested, when « it's over ».). It's all this that we lack in work because in this informal setting everything that makes the link.

The Dapsa was created on the importance of work in the interstices, in the unnamed spaces, in this famous interstitial fabric, which, both physiologically and humanly, makes life maintain itself.

And then, and then the DAPSA will continue this animation work of these spaces between him and you, between you, between you and the families by writing regularly, by chit-chatting with each other.

Other writings will follow and will also be consultable on our internet site dapsa.asso.fr.

Don't hesitate to react to these mailings. Soon!

Chantiers du DAPSA : Ouverts pendant les travaux !

59 rue Meslay, 75003 Paris

01 42 09 07 17

reseau@dapsa.org